

Support East 7th Businesses and More During Construction

Mandy Okonek

When will the madness end? The city says November, but many of us suspect otherwise. As an Upper Swede Hollow resident, I've tried to be patient amid the endless street closures. But our local businesses? They need some love. Let's rally and put hard-earned cash into the hands of the folks most inconvenienced by this latest round of construction.

On East 7th Street

- Cafeto Shop, 806 E 7th St. Cozy coffee, plants, and a beautiful mural.
- Carbone's Pizzeria, 680 E 7th St. A longtime East Side pizza shop.

- Eagle and Condor Native Wellness Center, 790 E 7th St. Healing products and services.
- La Cabaña, 863 E 7th St. Mexican seafood and generous portions.
- La Michoacana Purepecha, 809 E 7th St. Ice cream, paletas, and your reward for braving the detours.
- Mañana Salvadoran Restaurant, 798 E 7th St. Pupusas and a warm welcome.
- Mississippi Market Co-op, 740 E 7th St. Groceries, deli, and local goods.

- The Patron Barber, 806 E 7th St., Suite 100. Pair a fresh cut with a coffee from Cafeto.
- Roots Café, 788 E 7th St. Coffee, community, and local art.
- Taqueria Los Paisanos, 825 E 7th St. Tacos, tamales, and mulitas.

Just Off 7th

- CrowBar, 704 Minnehaha Ave E. Artsy eclectic vibe, creative cocktails.
- Eagles Club 33, 287 Maria Ave. An old-school neighborhood club.

- Saint Paul Brewing, 688 Minnehaha Ave E. A brewpub in the old Hamm's complex.

More Ways to Help

Spending isn't the only way to help. Leave a glowing review. Order takeout directly instead of through delivery apps. Tip a little extra. Tell friends the pupusas are worth the drive. And give frazzled servers some grace. They've been dodging jackhammers, too.

The orange cones will eventually disappear. Let's make sure our favorite neighbors are still here when they do.

Kellogg-Third Street Bridge is Opening in November

City of Saint Paul

The new Kellogg-3rd Street Bridge is anticipated to open to vehicles, pedestrians, and bicyclists by November 15, 2026. To open the bridge as soon as possible, residents should anticipate construction activities to continue into 2027, including installing railing in some locations, landscape restoration, and other clean up activities.

In anticipation of the opening, a Community Celebration and Ribbon Cutting Ceremony was planned for Saturday, October 24. This family-friendly event invited people to walk, bike, or roll across the new bridge. There were also areas on the bridge deck that featured local community organizations and businesses. The Ribbon Cutting was held at the east end of the bridge at Mounds Boulevard at 11:15.

TriLingua Cinema Has a Permanent Home

Trilingua Cinema

TriLingua Cinema's 36-seat Micro Cinema is now located in the basement of the East Side Freedom Library, 1105 Greenbrier Street, a historic Carnegie Library building. This is our first permanent home after six years as a pop-up. Featuring 5.1 surround sound, we showcase independent first-run films, local filmmakers, documentaries, family favorites, repertory classics, multilingual cinema, and more. Our entrance is located on the Jessamine side of the building. We can't wait to welcome you to the movies. TriLingua Cinema brings people together through the magic of the movies. Our name means "three tongues," a nod to the main three languages spoken in East Side Saint Paul: English, Spanish, and Hmong. Since 2020, we've worked as a group of friends, neighbors and volunteers hosting free and low cost pop up film screenings. We show all kinds of movies with the goal of creating community and have finally realized our long-term vision of opening a stand-alone brick and mortar cinema for all East Siders.

Save the Dayton's Bluff Library

Jane Prince

It was a pleasure to attend the community meeting Councilmember Johnson organized to celebrate saving our Dayton's Bluff Library—and to plan how to keep it. It was reassuring to hear from Metro State University President Ginny Arthur, who reaffirmed the university's long-term commitment to our neighborhood.

She noted that Metro State opened in Dayton's Bluff 26 years ago with core values rooted in community service. When the public library opened on campus in 2004, Metro State students and staff got involved in joint programming, homework help, tutoring, book clubs, and more. These activities ended during COVID and the shift to online learning. After the meeting, I reached out to President Arthur about rebuilding that vitality. She is eager to explore new ways to bring neighborhood families, children, seniors—and Metro students, faculty, and staff—back into the library. "Our desire is to develop meaningful ways to build community through the Dayton's Bluff Public Library." And she urged all of us—the City and the neighborhood—to see Metropolitan State University not as its landlord, but as its partner.

Letter to the Editor: I Smell a Skunk

Am I the only one who feels like there is an awful lot of whining being done by some members of our Police Department. Nothing I have read strikes me as needing a lawsuit or heaven forbid, our Mayor, Kaohly Her's resignation. What are the real reasons lurking behind all of this drama?
Mayor Her is the first female mayor of St. Paul and also the first Asian American to lead the city. She won the popular vote based on her relatability to us; she listens. Unfortunately, the warmth and vulnerability that is so refreshing to us are seen as weaknesses by others who are exploiting them.

It was especially disheartening to read Councilwoman Molly Coleman's remarks regarding the supposed offenses. Responsible representatives don't make hasty assumptions. There has been much said about non-transparency regarding the charges but maybe this is the best they have aside from all of the legalese.

On November 17, 1927, St. Paul approved a plan for a 100-foot steel tower to be erected as an airway beacon in Indian Mounds Park. Over 600 airway beacons were constructed between 1923 and 1933 to help pilots find their way on night flights by following the lights from city to city.

In 1929 this 100-foot tower was constructed in Indian Mounds Park a little west of Earl Street. It was designed to light the way between St. Paul and Chicago and ever since has been a local landmark. Ironically in that same year, radio range systems began to replace the visual systems.

The rotating beacon features a 24-inch mirror that spins at six revolutions per minute. In clear weather it can be seen for 40 miles.

The Smithsonian wanted to remove the beacon, the last of it's kind, to their museum but community people resisted the move. The beacon was restored between 1994-1995. The revolving light was taken down and refurbished. A modern red and white color scheme on the tower was stripped off and was replaced by the original black and chrome yellow color scheme. An interpretive marker now sits near Mound's Boulevard.

A historic St. Paul building is about to get a new life, and local Black ownership is leading it.

Sponsored by GroundBreak Coalition: Keg House Commons, a $3.2 million fitness, wellness, arts and event hub in the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Company Keg House on West Seventh, is expected to open later this month. Element Boxing and Fitness will anchor the space, joined by a sports lounge, a 500-person event venue, LifeJuices and a new coffee vendor.

Developer Dalton Outlaw wants it to be a place where people connect, belong and share experiences.

Hourcar, Evie, and EV Spot Chargers

The recent announcement that Hourcar was ceasing operation as of October 15 means that people will no longer have access to electric vehicles provided by the Hourcar and Evie Careshare programs.

The Chevrolet Bolts that could be accessed through the Evie Carshare program were often seen parked at one of the many EV Spot Network chargers that have been built in Dayton's Bluff and other parts of the East Side, a few as recently as this past summer.

Although the cars will be gone, the EV Spot Network chargers will remain operational for residents to charge their personal electric vehicles. The Network is owned and operated by the cities of Saint Paul and Minneapolis, powered in partnership with Xcel Energy. They will continue to support and maintain the EV Spot Network stations.

Ramsey County Effectively Ends Chronic Veteran Homelessness

Ramsey County

After a decade of targeted outreach and multi-agency collaboration, Ramsey County has officially become the 10th and final jurisdiction in Minnesota to declare an effective end to veteran homelessness.

County staff and leaders joined community partners, Minnesota Governor Tim Walz and others on Oct. 13 to observe this important milestone. Earlier in the month, the Minnesota Interagency Council on Homelessness (MICH) reviewed data showing Ramsey County and its partners had built a system that meets four qualifying benchmarks:

- Zero chronic and long-term veteran homelessness.
- Adequate housing capacity.
- A commitment to Housing First principles.
- An average turnaround time of less than 90 days to move veterans into permanent housing.

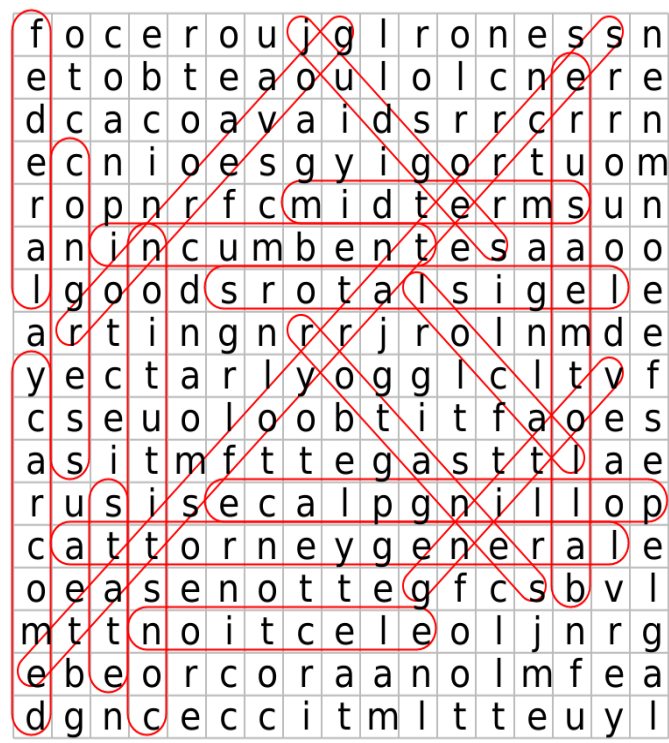

Since 2015, Heading Home Ramsey and its partners in the Veterans Core Collaborative have utilized a Veterans Homeless Registry and collaborative model that has helped them connect over 800 veterans experiencing homelessness with the services and support they need to find and maintain stable housing.

This declaration does not mean a veteran will never experience homelessness again. Instead, it means the county has established a system that quickly identifies unhoused veterans and transitions them into permanent housing.

The Veteran Core Collaborative plans to shift its focus toward long-term prevention by addressing the root causes of housing instability before they happen. Moving forward, the collaborative hopes to apply this successful model to help other vulnerable populations across the state.

View From My Porch

Thoughts, Sights, and Sounds of a Neighborhood

Sage Holben

I had intended to write about Saint Paul’s 2026—20?? ongoing “Lights Out” event. I have made many, many phone calls and electronic requests for basic data, i.e. tally of streetlights and possible district breakdowns, how many have had wires cut, how many times. I’m being given the impression of a reluctance in sharing, or such data is not kept—hard to believe. Also, I have been asking for the number of arrests or otherwise detained and moved through the legal system; and, of the above, how many fines (and average amount of fine), and how much work-house/jail time given to each. I was given one arrest number (with a start and end date for total) and when I shared it with another knowledgeable person I was told with a laugh it was way off. I’m still seeking answers and confirmation. As a result of this “Lights Out” program, please consider the safety of nighttime drivers and pedestrians (not so much nefarious wanderers who prowl the darkness) and especially emergency responders. Reflective address numbers on your house or business may not be enough to keep people from tripping or falling on your steps or our broken, public sidewalks. Please add additional lighting if necessary, to focus on the house numbers. Solar units are available specifically for this purpose. I’ll bet your Door Dash or Amazon delivery person would appreciate this; I see people wandering from house to house as late as 10 p.m. searching for the correct address. Speaking of broken public sidewalks: I’ve had some very pleasant and informative conversations lately with Public Works employees. Thank you, Maui, Howie, Tim, and Jericho. Jericho, my latest contact, happened to stop out front and was checking out our decades-old broken, heaving sidewalk. I learned about the sidewalk grinder (no, it is not a dance, nor a hero sandwich). Within a day his crew was out here giving our sidewalks temporary fixes, ensuring safety of walkers and wheels. It’s not permanent, but it’s safer and sidewalk replacement is coming. Jericho is Field Superintendent of Street Maintenance. His contact info is 651-266-9700; email: Jericho.Huggar@ci.stpaul.mn.us

Dayton's Bluff Rec Center Gets a New Athletic Court

Saint Paul Dept. of Parks and Recreation

Construction began on Tuesday, September 29 at Dayton's Bluff Rec Center for the 2026 Courts Improvements Project. The City of Saint Paul Department of Parks and Recreation secured funding to construct a new athletic court at Dayton's Bluff Recreation Center (Ward 7, District 4). The primary scope of work for the project is the construction of a new basketball court and related amenities. The current skateboard park, which replaced the previous tennis courts, will be replaced with a basketball court and a new concrete-surfaced skateboard park that will replace the old asphalt one. There will be eight-foot fences on the east and west sides of the basketball court with a four-foot fence on the south side. The layout of features of the the skateboard park haven't been determined yet. New paths and benches will also be installed in the area. The project, which is funded by the Capital Improvement Budget (CIB) and by the Common Cent Sales Tax, is scheduled to be completed by the spring of 2027.
